We have to ask you a lot of questions about yourself. This is because you want to open an account with us to save your money. We ask you things like your name, your date of birth and where you live. We also ask you for your passport or birth certificate and proof of your address and PPSN. This is to help us know that your money is your money. There are also a lot of laws that tell us we have to ask you about yourself and if we didn't we'd get into trouble.

If you don't want to tell us about yourself, that's ok but we might not be able to let you join the credit union.

Sometimes we have to show other people your information. We will make sure that they take good care of it. There are some laws in Ireland that say we have to show these people your information. Sometimes we can't do everything in the credit union so we ask other people to help us and they might see your information as well.

If you come into the credit union, we have cameras in the office to protect everyone and to stop people from scamming us. If you would like to let another person take money out of your account, for example, your parent, you need to tell them that the credit union is using information about them.

There is a law that makes sure we take good care of the information we have about you. That law gives you lots of rights and is called General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). An example of your rights, is that you can ask us to give you a copy of all the information we have about you. You can also ask us to change your information.
